Macmillan And JFK Wind Up Talks Today

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan wind up their allied policy talks today with an evident determination to seek the cooperation of other North Atlantic Treaty Organization powers in forming a new "partnership" in nuclear weapons defense.

The two leaders were scheduled to issue a joint statement on the results of their three days of conferences at the White House. It was expected to stress a need for greater unity in allied ranks.

Macmillan stressed the unity theme heavily in a speech at Cambridge, Mass., Friday night. For the first time, he gave some official indication of the nature of talks with Kennedy, although American and British diplomats have been providing regular, informal reports on the talks which began last Tuesday.

The prime minister called for "a partnership in the nuclear as well as conventional (weapons) field," and U.S. officials here said that Kennedy and he had talked about this idea and Kennedy supported it.

The U.S. and British leaders were reported to have expressed privately in their talks concern about the French policy under President Charles de Gaulle of building up a separate nuclear striking force for France. They evidently fear this would eventually lead to similar action by other European allies and produce a demand in West Germany for an independent nuclear force.

Presumably, Kennedy and Macmillan hope that the "partnership" idea, when fully developed, will result in a change in French policy.

This issue, which Macmillan described as vital to the future of NATO, seemed certain to come up at a NATO foreign minister's meeting set for Oslo, Norway, early next month and to figure also in Kennedy's talks with De Gaulle at Paris around June 1.

The problem may also enter into Kennedy's meeting here next week with West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer. They are expected to discuss Berlin and German problems, the future development of NATO and European trade matters.

The White House announced Friday that Prime Minister Amintore Fanfani of Italy will visit Kennedy June 12 and 13 for a "general exchange of views on world problems."

Posters to Emphasize Library Week

The Hope school children are busy making posters to enter in a poster contest planned as a part of the activities for National Library Week, April 16-22. Mrs. Charles Wilhite, chairman of Operation Library of Hope Jayettes has charge of the contest.

The contest will give children and young people an opportunity to show their artistic ability and training by making and entering original posters. There are three divisions in the poster contest: one for junior high students; one for elementary school students; and one for primary students.

Winning posters will be selected by a committee of judges and prizes will be awarded in each division. The winning poster in the first two divisions will be entered in the state-wide poster contest which is a part of the Arkansas Book Fair to be held in Little Rock, April 30 - May 6. The Fair this year will be held in conjunction with the state Festival of Arts.

AST Retains Department Head

CONWAY, Ark. (AP) — Jeff Farris still heads the physical education department at Arkansas State Teachers College.

Jeff Farris Jr., 34, for the past four years director of the Public Health Education Division of the state Health Department, has been named to the ASTC post to succeed his late father.

The elder Farris died in February after 18 years on the ASTC faculty.

Weather

Partly cloudy and cool today; increasing cloudiness and warmer with scattered showers in the western portion tonight.

Library Employees' Confer

These ladies were in the area for the purpose of conducting an Elementary School Workshop at Prescott earlier this week. This picture was taken at the Plaza Restaurant after a breakfast with some local members of the Regional Library Board and local library employees.

During a Difficult Situation Which Do You Rely on Most—Your Instinct or Reason?

By MARY ANITA LASETER
Star Feature Writer

For an Inquiring Reporter article this month your reporter selected names at random in the Hope telephone book and asked the question, "In a difficult situation, do you rely on instinct or reason more frequently?"

MRS. S. A. WESTBROOK, Oakhaven: "Since reason is more reliable, I use it more frequently, but instinct plays an important role in certain cases."

MRS. FRANCES SUE SOMMERVILLE, 723 S. Elm: "It depends on the length of time available for the decision. In the case of a quick decision, we don't have time for much thought and must rely on instinct. However, it is usually better to use reasoning when possible."

RALPH SAUNDERS, Rocky Mount Road: "I find reason the better choice, as logic has always been a sort of standby for me."

JACK FOUNTAIN, 517 S. Elm: "Reason is more reliable in all cases with which I've dealt, and it is certainly my first choice."

DALE DUNN, Patmos-Shover Springs Road: "Though instinct is necessary when a fast decision is required, taking a longer time to reason it out usually makes for better results. The decision is often different and more moderate with a little more thought."

MRS. E. P. O'NEAL, 1220 E. 6th North: "Like most women I rely to a great extent on instinct, or what is sometimes referred to as 'woman's intuition.'"

RALPH BAILEY, Highway 67 East: "I always try to reason out something before I make a decision. This includes seeking the advice of others who are more qualified to know than I am, and reading as much as possible regarding the subject at hand."

MRS. K. E. AMBROSE, 1301 S. Main: "I would certainly say 'reason backed closely by prayer.' Mine is an analytical mind that necessarily turns to reason in times of decision."

Though Reason was the choice of an overwhelming majority of those interviewed, very few of them needed time to reach a decision on that choice. Maybe analyzing the question wasn't necessary, as it referred to a "difficult situation" and we hope that wasn't created.

Ask yourself the same question and see what your answer would be.

Cotton Stalk Deadline Is April 15

Cotton stalks throughout the state must be completely destroyed by April 15, according to the State Plant Board which issued the following information:

Who Responsible

The owner of the land on which the cotton is grown, the operator, and the tenants are jointly and severally responsible for compliance for stalk destruction.

The stalk destruction deadline was changed from January 31 to April 15 beginning this year in order for a number of growers to participate in the ASC program in lessening the hazard of water and wind erosion in a number of areas.

Even though the deadline was extended, growers were urged to pick their fields out just as soon as possible and destroy the stalks immediately thereafter, and not put off destroying the stalks until just before the April 15 deadline. Early stalk destruction not only gives a better kill of pink bollworms but will also aid in other insect control.

Method

Any method will be acceptable so long as a complete and thorough job is done in destroying all bolls and locks.

Penalty for Non-Compliance

Should any field be found not in compliance by the April 15 deadline, information may be filed with the prosecuting attorney, requesting that a criminal action be brought against the owner, operator, or tenant, (or jointly).

In addition, the Chief Inspector may cause the destruction of the cotton stalks, the expense thereof to be charged against the owner, custodian, or occupant, and if necessary, enforce a lien on the property for costs involved as provided by the law.

In addition the Plant Board will list any owners, operators, or tenants who have failed to meet the stalk destruction requirements through reasons other than extreme hardship, and at the beginning of the ginning season will send such lists to all gins.

Ginners are prohibited from ginning cotton for persons whose names appear on said lists, until said persons present to the ginner a written release from the Plant Board or USDA.

Haiti Offers Base to U.S.

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (AP) — A U.S. congressman said today Haiti has offered Mole St. Nicolas—a natural harbor on Haiti's northwestern tip only 40 miles from Cuba—to the United States for use as a naval base.

Rep. Victor L. Anfuso, D-N.Y., said Haiti President Francois Duvalier made the offer to him and asked him to convey it to President Kennedy. Anfuso added that Duvalier said the offer had been made originally to President Eisenhower, and that he wanted to repeat it to the new administration.

The Brooklyn congressman told a newspaperman a U.S. naval base at Mole St. Nicolas would not be intended as a threat to Cuba, but merely to strengthen the Organization of American States in its task of policing the Caribbean, and that it could be a site for a satellite tracking station to replace one in Cuba.

Refugees Tell of Massacres

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — President Ngo Dinh Diem says he must have more U.S. aid to stem the rising tide of Communist terrorism threatening South Viet Nam.

The United States now puts $150 million annually into this Asian nation, but the president believes more money is needed to enlarge the army.

His views were made known in an interview today.

Would Make All Run the Same Way

DELIGHT, Ark. (AP) — Rep. Alvis W. Stokes of Pike County said today that if sponsors push a plan which would require candidates for U.S. representative to run at large next year he would try to get a similar arrangement for state senators and state representatives.

Stokes termed "the most insane thing I've ever heard of," the proposal for a referendum on the state's new congressional redistricting law.

He threatened to counter it with a similar referendum to require state senators and representatives to be elected at large.

The proposed redistricting referendum would require the at-large election because the new law would be held in abeyance and would be voted on next year at the same time congressmen were being chosen.

Stokes declared "there's not enough money for everybody to run at large."

The proposed redistricting referendum was announced here last week by Tom Tyler of Little Rock, a former Pulaski County representative.

It would have to be put on the 1962 ballot by voters' petitions.

So would any proposed law, such as Stokes threatened, to have state legislators — 35 senators and 100 representatives — elected at large.

The 1961 Legislature redistricted the state from six congressional areas to four because Arkansas is losing two national House seats as a result of a population decline.

Prison Gates Open Soon for 'Axis Sally'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prison gates will open soon for "Axis Sally," the American girl who broadcast Nazi Germany's propaganda to U.S. soldiers during World War II.

Chairman Richard A. Chappell of the U.S. Parole Board announced today the board has granted parole to Mildred Elizabeth Gillars effective July 10. She has served 12 years of a 20-to-30-year sentence for treason in the federal women's reformatory at Alderson, W.Va.

Now 60 and white haired, Miss Gillars will find seclusion in a convent, where she has arranged to work after her release from prison.

Chappell said she will be required to report periodically to a parole officer until her 30-year term expires in 1979.

She was born Mildred E. Sisk at Portland, Maine, and as a young woman went to Dresden, Germany, to study piano with a stage career in mind. In Germany, she changed her name to Mildred Gillars and during the war became the highest-paid performer on the Nazi radio network.

American soldiers located her in Germany in 1946 and she was returned to Washington, where she was convicted of treason in 1949.

Torso Murder Trial Is Set

MENA, Ark. (AP) — Mrs. Norma MacDonald Young, 50, will be tried May 29 on a first degree murder charge resulting from the dismemberment slaying of her former husband. The state will seek the death penalty, Prosecutor Ben Core said.

Circuit Judge Bobby Steel set the date Thursday and appointed Nabors Shaw and Joe Hardegree to defend Mrs. Young after she said she was financially unable to secure counsel.

Mrs. Young moved to Covington, La., last December, shortly before parts of the body of E. B. MacDonald, 73, were found in a well near Mena.

Other parts of the body were found in a shed behind a house she rented in Covington. Police there quoted her as saying she helped dispose of the body but did not kill MacDonald.

No other arrests have been made in the case.

Castro Raves Again About Invasion

By RICHARD VALERIANI

HAVANA (AP) — Fresh invasion jitters seized Cuba today after Prime Minister Fidel Castro's boast the Cuban people are impatiently awaiting their enemies and will smash any attempt to overthrow his regime.

Castro told a workers' rally Friday night the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency is directing a plot to invade Cuba and is supplying terrorists and counterrevolutionary bands.

He charged the United States already is waging open economic aggression against Cuba and warned that rationing of some goods may be necessary.

Even as Castro spoke, one of his bitter foes said in New York a general revolt against the Cuban regime will get under way soon. Jose Miro Cardona, head of the exiled Cuban Revolutionary Council, told newsmen anti-communist leaders are meeting to outline a program.

In Miami, Fla., the Miami Herald said in a copyright story Cardona's council intends to overthrow Castro "by means of the underground" rather than an invasion. Cardona already has sought U.S. recognition of a Cuban government in exile, the Herald said, and is poised to set up a provisional government in Cuba.

Castro said his revolution "has not lost time in organizing and preparing itself" and that a giant May Day parade would display "the working class perfectly prepared to resist imperialist aggression."

During the last weeks of the Eisenhower administration Castro had his heavily armed military forces scanning the horizon for days on end, watching for an American invasion fleet he promised would arrive momentarily. It never did.

Castro's invasion warning is highlighted by a new security crackdown by his intelligence forces in recent weeks. Some diplomats who have dealings with Cuban intelligence agents say they are trigger-happy and nervous as they hunt down terrorists.

More Folks Can Get SS Benefits

Recent changes in social security allow payments to many people previously denied. Anyone who has tried to get social security checks within the past six years, was turned down because of too little work credit, may now be eligible.

According to Otis A. Blackwood, District Manager of the Texarkana Social Security Office, many retired workers may get social security checks because the work requirements are now easier to meet. Many workers born after 1888, and many survivors of workers who died since 1953 will be helped by this change in the work requirements. Blackwood said that no one knows exactly how many are in the Hope area. His staff is trying to locate all those who will be helped by this change.

Anyone in the Hope area who was turned down for retirement or monthly death payments within the last six years, should go by the Texarkana office. The social security people can check and see if the new changes will help. The office is at 402 Federal Building, Texarkana, Arkansas.

Region Oratorical Contest Monday

CONWAY, Ark. (AP) — Four state winners will compete here Monday in a regional American Legion high school oratorical contest.

Winners from their respective states are Jimmie Eddleman of Marianna; Miss Jerlynne M. Lott of Jackson, Miss.; John Thomas Cox Jr., of Springfield, La.; and Land Barksdale of Arlington, Tex.

Contenders will deliver a prepared speech of from 10 to 12 minutes and an extemporaneous speech of about six minutes.

Hal Robbins, Conway High School principal, will conduct the contest.

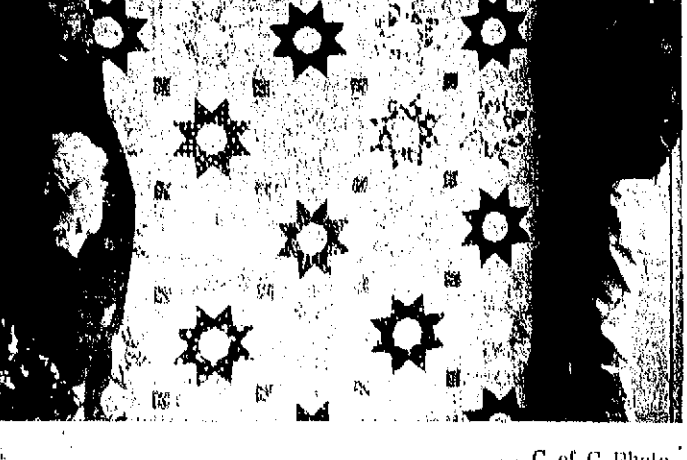

The winner will go to the national semi-finals at Plant City, Fla., as guest of the American Legion.

The semi-finals winner will participate in a national contest for a top prize of a $4,000 college scholarship.

Club for Aged Makes Plans

The Golden Age Club held its first luncheon meet this week with 25 members and four guests present. The group planned other meetings at Fair Park. The Hope Club is one of the top three in Arkansas. ## Calls for New Laws to Help Curb Crime

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, in his first Justice Department news conference, has called for eight powerful new laws to help curb organized crime.

The youthful attorney general said he was confident that "we will get some action on these bills" from Congress.

A record 174 newsmen, tops for a Justice Department conference, overflowed Kennedy's large reception room into adjacent offices Thursday.

In a wide-ranging, sometimes humorous discussion, they heard Kennedy touch on other matters, on: Businessmen's ethics, juvenile delinquency, the deportation of a New Orleans racketeer figure, the John Birch Society and organized crime.

Kennedy, 35, a brother of the President, did not provide specific details of how he planned to operate against organized crime.

But, he asserted: "It is my firm belief that new laws are needed to give the FBI increased jurisdiction to assist local authorities in the common battle against the racketeers."

The new laws he has asked Congress to approve include five years imprisonment and $10,000 fines for interstate travel "to advance illegal activities."

"More and more," Kennedy said, "the bankrollers and king pins of the racketeers live in one state, but return periodically to another state to collect from the rackets they run by remote control."

Kennedy also called for: Punishment for persons intimidating or injuring anyone cooperating in a federal investigation. (Present law only protects witnesses called in judicial or congressional investigations.)

Stiff new firearms regulations.

The five other new laws requested by Kennedy were proposed in one form or another by his predecessor, William P. Rogers. They deal with stopping the flow of gambling information and equipment across state lines and broadening federal power in some other areas.

Claim Filed on TB Sanatorium

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A claim for $52,400 was filed today against the Arkansas Tuberculosis Sanatorium at Booneville in the death Feb. 6 of a 2-year-old girl who was scalded in a bathtub.

The suit, filed by former Gov. Sid McMath and state Sen. Max Howell, alleged negligence in putting the child in with older children and by piping intensely hot water into the children's ward.

The suit was filed for Mr. and Mrs. James Henderson of Alexandria, parents of the dead girl, Martha Maxine Henderson.

Peace Talks In Congo May Ease Tension

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP) — Rebel leader Antoine Gizenga and his Stanleyville regime's military leader have accepted the central government's bid for peace talks Sunday, raising hopes the main friction in the Congo may be eased.

Negotiations will be conducted, the central government said, in two jungle towns on the neutral border between Equatorial and Oriental provinces where the two regimes have conducted a sporadic, hit-and-run war for months.

Economic Minister Jean-Pierre Thiercyard of the Kasavubu central government said Leopoldville wants an agreement with Stanleyville "so that our friends in that province (Oriental) can return with us in a united Congo."

No mention was made of the third major factor in the chaotic Congo—Moise Tshombe's Katanga Province.

Tshombe has declared Katanga independent and has been a prime mover for loose confederation of Congo states under a weak central hand, this position in the negotiations was not made clear.

Gen. Joseph Mobutu, Leopoldville's military strongman, announced he will meet rebel army commander Gen. Victor Lundula in the town of Bumba, thirty miles away in Bunduki, Leopoldville. Vice Premier Jean Bialongo, representing President Joseph Kasavubu, will meet Gizenga.

There was no indication why the military and political leaders will meet separately, but in telephone conversations Friday both sides indicated they wanted neutral sites where negotiators could meet without fear of local interference.

The man who appears to have cleared the way for the negotiations, Cleophas Kamitatu, will attend the political conference. Kamitatu, president of Leopoldville Province, flew to Stanleyville Tuesday on a conciliation mission with the central government's blessing.

To facilitate negotiations, the central government announced it was lifting an economic blockade slapped on Oriental and Kivu provinces four months ago in an attempt to force Gizenga to submit to Leopoldville's authority.

Katanga Province continued to maintain a partial economic blockade of its own—but against United Nations troops stationed in Elisabethville.

Bulletin

LONDON (AP) — Five hundred people were rescued from the British ship Dara after it was abandoned in flames in the Persian Gulf early today, the London owners reported. Fifty more people were still unaccounted for.

One life has so far been reported lost, said a spokesman for the British India Steam Navigation Company.

The 5,630-ton vessel ran into fierce storms and torrential rain during the night while plying between Bombay and Basra with 440 passengers. The ship carried a crew of 110, including 19 European officers.

New Plane Will Cut Tourist Fares

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Douglas Aircraft Co. said Thursday it would build a new DC8F jet plane that could cut tourist-class fares 20 per cent and lower cargo rates by 50 per cent.

Donald W. Douglas, Jr., president of the company expressed belief the plane would increase intercontinental traffic manifold.

The new plane, identical in size with 110-passenger DC8, will carry 54 passengers behind the wings and 52,000 pounds of cargo forward.

Kazan to Quit Directing Plays

NEW YORK (AP) — Elia Kazan, theatrical and movie director, says he has just made two decisions.

He is going to quit directing Broadway plays and he is going to write motion picture scripts as well as direct them.

"I've had Broadway and I'm not even reading scripts anymore for Broadway production," he said in an interview.

"The whole Broadway setup is inimicable to the theater. It's almost impossible to do artistically daring work because of the current economy of Broadway. Costs have become so absurd, producers are actually abandoning plays they know are worthwhile because of the high cost of running them."

Johnson to Talk With DeGaulle

Johnson met for 45 minutes before his departure with French Premier Michel Debre.

At a news conference, Johnson said "We discussed all the general subjects which will be explored by our presidents in their historic meeting in May. We discussed most of the things in which our nations are interested."

Meatpackers Must Dry Out Hams

LITTLE ROCK (AP) —The state Health Department is going to make meat-packers dry out their hams.

Dr. J. T. Herron, state health officer, said Thursday that Arkansas now doesn't have regulations limiting the amount of water in ham. But he said it soon will have.

He's acting because some hams shipped in from out of state have too much water.

"We actually squeezed water out of one by hand," he said. "It was that wet. This is a fraud on the public, paying ham prices for water."

He said Arkansas packers complain they are hurt by the ham-watering, which he said is mostly in hams shipped in from out of the state.

Shreveport Klan Charter Revoked

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP) — A Texas Ku Klux Klan leader said Thursday he has revoked the charter of the Shreveport KKK unit in connection with the burning of a cross in front of the residence of a congressman.

R. E. Davis of Dallas, self-styled imperial wizard of the Original Knights of The Ku Klux Klan, said the action was taken shortly after a cross was burned in front of the Shreveport home of Rep. Overton Brooks, D-La., last Feb. 8. Brooks and his family were in Washington at the time.

Shreveport police picked up Davis Thursday and questioned him about activities in the area, including the cross burning. Davis was about to leave the city following a two-day visit.

Davis said he revoked the Shreveport charter when he was unable to learn the names of those responsible for the cross burning.

Fibber McGee's Molly Dies

ENCINO, Calif. (AP) — Marian Jordan, the wry-voiced Molly of the long-running "Fibber McGee and Molly" radio show, died of cancer today. She would have been 63 April 16.

The comedienne died at her home early this morning with her husband and co-star, Jim Jordan, at her bedside, as well as their two children, Jim Jr., and Mrs. Kathryn Newcomer.

The family said that Mrs. Jordan was discovered to have an ovarian tumor a year ago. In recent years the Jordans had been semiretired, making only a few appearances on the NBC radio show, Monitor.

Memphis Names Negro Lawyer

MEMPHIS (AP) —A Negro lawyer has been appointed an assistant public defender here in what he calls "a step forward in the area of race relations."

Ben L. Hooks, attorney, minister and political leader, is the first of his race to hold such a position in Memphis. He was named to the $225 a month part-time post Thursday.

Officers Change Bullets Used

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo. (AP) —Because two policemen were killed and their slayers escaped, the Cape Girardeau Police Department is switching to a different kind of bullet.

The officers were fatally shot in a gun duel with two desperadoes March 10.

Police Chief P. R. Little said an inspection of the slayers' getaway car revealed that bullets fired by officers did not penetrate the car door.

So far extensive tests the department has adopted bullets made of cupro-nickel with a lead core.

Chief Little said from now on, officers on duty will have cartridges loaded with this type of bullet. Regular lead bullets will be used in target shooting because the cupro-nickel slugs are so hard they tend to wear out pistol barrels if used often.

As another result of the shooting, the Cape force will also carry 12 gauge riot guns in police cars. Before, the riot guns were kept in the police station.

Churchill Pays a Visit to Florida

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) —Sir Winston Churchill, on a month-long Caribbean cruise aboard the yacht of Greek millionaire Aristotle Onassis, stopped here today on his second visit to the United States since 1959.

The former British prime minister is traveling aboard the 332-foot yacht Christina. Onassis is a close friend.

Churchill remained aboard and his secretary, Anthony Montague Brown, said the British leader probably will stay on board and leave for New York later today or early Saturday.

Churchill is tired but is in very good health, Brown said.

The secretary said Churchill is expected to arrive in New York Wednesday and fly back to London that day.

Five Held in Paper Holdup

NEW YORK (AP) —Five men were seized early today in connection with Thursday's $63,000 holdup at a Brooklyn plant of the New York Daily News, and police reported recovery of $59,000.

Shortly after the group was taken to a stationhouse for questioning, authorities reported one had admitted taking part in the robbery. He was identified as Benjamin Briganti, 25, of Long Island City, Queens.

Police said Briganti "went for a gun" as detectives smashed through the door of his apartment shortly before 6 a.m., but was quickly subdued. Detectives said the $59,000 cash hoard was found in his apartment.

Sheriff Wants Easter Bunny

HITA CITY, Calif. (AP) —Wanted by the sheriff: One Easter bunny.

Elbert Audrey Taylor, 46, was one of 10 prisoners assigned to play bunny and hide 4,200 colored Easter eggs before Sheriff G. W. Carpenter's big Easter egg hunt for Sutter County children.

The children found the eggs, but the sheriff hasn't been able to find Taylor, who was serving a nine months sentence for failure to provide for his family.

Broksher Winner at Ft. Smith

FORT SMITH, Ark. (AP) —Robert R. Broksher was certified winner of Tuesday's mayoral election after a recount of votes gave him 22 more than in the original count.

His opponent, B.G. Hendrix, asked for the recount after he lost 4,892 to 4,809. The second time around, Hendrix lost 32 while Broksher gained 22, but the election committee said no gross inaccuracies were found.

"Only human errors," the committee reported as it certified the returns Thursday.

Fulbright Tries to Grab Another Plant

Arkansans in Washington By GORDON BROWN

WASHINGTON (AP) — With Michigan already complaining that Arkansas has "stolen" one of its projects, Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., is trying to grab another from Mississippi.

Michigan's complaint, voiced recently by Rep. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich., involves a decision by the Borg-Warner Corp. to move its Norge operations from Muskegon, Mich., to Fort Smith.

Griffin yelled "foul."

Fulbright has written Chairman Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., of the Senate Agriculture Appropriations subcommittee suggesting that a $600,000 conservation field station, recommended for Stoneville, Miss., be located in Arkansas instead.

Whether he gets away with it likely will depend on how strenuously Mississippi's Sen. John Stennis, D., objects. And, too, Stennis is a member of the committee.

Griffin's complaint on the Norge plant revolves around an Arkansas law permitting cities to issue tax-free bonds to finance industrial development and expansion.

He said the Norge plant at Fort Smith is to be financed through issuance of $7½ million in tax-free municipal bonds and that Borg-Warner bought $6 million of the bonds.

Now, he said, the company will pay rent, which is tax deductible and receive tax-free interest on its investment.

"Outrageous," Griffin protested, adding that in Michigan a municipality can issue tax-free bonds only for a public purpose.

He said he'd like to change the federal tax law so that interest on municipal bonds would be taxable unless issued for a public purpose. But, he said, any change would have to be okayed by the House Ways and Means Committee—headed by Arkansas' Rep. Wilbur Mills, D. This, he said, would be a formidable obstacle.

Alternatively, he said, maybe Michigan would have to change its constitution to permit its cities to issue similar bonds. Michigan, voters however, at an election last Monday turned down a proposal to permit the state to use up to $5 million of its credit for industrial development.

Fulbright, in making a pitch for the conservation field station — a station which would study soil and water conservation problems for the lower Mississippi valley—said Arkansas has 10 million acres of the kinds of soils which will be studied.

Also, he said, 45 per cent of the area which would be served by the station is in Arkansas—"far more than contained in Mississippi."

The matter probably will be fought out in Russell's subcommittee during consideration of the Agriculture Department appropriation bills.

Whether U.S. District Judge John E. Miller of Arkansas gets named to the 8th Circuit Court of Appeals may depend on how far Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy can go to accommodate Sen. John L. McClellan.

Kennedy served as counsel for the Senate Labor Rackets Committee under McClellan and the two are good friends.

McClellan has a recommended that Miller be named to the circuit court post.

But those in close touch with the situation say there are several U.S. district judges as old or older than Miller—who is 72—and that if Kennedy accepts Miller he would be hard pressed to draw the age line against other prospective candidates.

This situation may work against Miller, despite the fact he is hale and hearty.

As he has in the past, Rep. E. C. Gathings, D-Ark., devoted his latest weekly report to constituents to rice recipes used by various foreign embassies in Washington. This is in observance of National Rice Week.

This year he reprinted recipes for rice dishes from Nicaragua, The Philippines, Yemen, Greece and Denmark.

Usually Gathings gets many responses not only from his district, but all over Arkansas for copies of this edition of his report.

Her Mother-In-Law Bosses Home

By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Dear Helen:

I met the most wonderful boy a month ago. He asked me to a party in his fraternity house. The following week we went to a basketball game. Next week he called to say he didn't like me as much as he thought. I was so shocked I just mumbled, "Good-bye." I think about him all the time and would like to ask him to my junior prom this month. Do you think he would come? —Heartbroken

Dear Heartbroken: Of all the conceited nincompoops, this boy takes the prize. Any boy rude enough to call up and say he doesn't like you as much as he thought he did, deserves to be left strictly alone. Thank heavens you had the gumption to say good-bye. Don't give an oaf like that a second chance.

Dear Helen:

I am 72, the gentleman in question 81. We have known each other 60 years. I am a widower, he a widower. He wants to board at my home. He would be a help to me, I to him. My six-room house has three bedrooms. Would people talk? —Mrs. E.

Dear Mrs. E.: Such is human nature, people still might talk. But you could prevent all that by marrying the gentleman.

Send your problem to Helen Worden Erskine. Be sure to enclose a stamped self-addressed envelope and address her care of this newspaper. Helpful leaflets available.

Legal Notice

ORDINANCE NO. 218 CITY OF WASHINGTON, ARKANSAS

AN ORDINANCE TO BE ENTITLED "AN ORDINANCE TO REGULATE THE KEEPING OF DOGS IN THE CITY OF WASHINGTON, ARKANSAS"

BE IT ORDAINED by the City Council of the City of Washington, Arkansas:

SECTION I: That hereafter it shall be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation to keep any dog of any kind, breed or description whatsoever within the corporate limits of Washington, Arkansas, without having said dog vaccinated at least once a year against rabies.

SECTION II: In case of an epidemic or emergency involving rabies, and upon the order of the County Health Officer, all owners of dogs within the corporate limits of the City of Washington, Arkansas, may be required, after due notice of such emergency, to have their dogs vaccinated as often as such Health Officer decrees.

SECTION III: All dogs not wearing a tag or other evidence of vaccination at least once a year against rabies shall be caught, impounded and destroyed by the City Marshall or such other duly constituted officer as the Mayor may designate for that purpose.

SECTION IV: WHEREAS, this is the time of the year when the danger of rabies is greatest, and WHEREAS, the City of Washington, Arkansas, now has no ordinance requiring the vaccination of dogs, and WHEREAS, the public health, peace and safety of the municipality demands the enactment of this ordinance, an emergency is therefore declared to exist, and this ordinance shall take effect immediately upon its passage and approval.

ADOPTED by Washington City Council this 3rd day of April, 1961.

Signed: W. H. ETTER, Mayor Mary M. Haynes, Recorder Published in Hope Star April 8, 1961

MEET 'ANGEL'—The French comedy star, Lucille Ball, Hollywood's tag for the lovely arches into the U.S. TV firmament as Elaine Eden, Israel ment this fall in "Angel," a actress now starred in the film, situation comedy. She's de-"The Story of Ruth." One of scribed as another Lucille her better attributes is a pale Ball—with a French accent, of eyebrows as mobile as Groucho Marx's but much more sensitive and attractive.

PUBLIC VS. PRIVATE LIFE—"I'm no American Bardot," actress Lee Remick proclaims. Chast as a sexpot, Lee constantly tries to live down this reputation with an avid devotion to home life and her daughter. She's hoping that films like "Sanctuary," her latest, will soon be behind her and that a future in musicals lies ahead.

OUR ANCESTORS by Quincy

"They're building the new cars too darn low!"

CHAPTER XX

Morning sunlight filtered thinly into Charley Urbine's barroom at Gold Run. Occupying a chair in a shadowed corner, Frank Scorbie suffered in tight lipped silence.

"Anybody," taunted Charley Urbine, "would think that somewhere between here and Midas Hill, you'd taken the pledge. Or that you figured my whisky was poison. It ain't. It's good whisky."

When word had first reached him from Hogan Geer that Scorbie would be along presently, Geer's instructions had been few and concise.

Keep Scorbie at Gold Run until sent for. Let him have all the whisky he wants, which will be plenty. And we in Midas Hill will take care of the bill.

Such had been Hogan Geer's instructions. Scorbie had arrived and the whisky offered. But he wouldn't touch it. Not a single drop. Instead, near a gallon of black coffee had been substituted.

"You wouldn't be getting ideas, would you, Scorbie? About heading back to Midas Hill, maybe? That wouldn't be wise. You don't go anywhere until I say so. Remember that!"

Still Frank Scorbie said nothing, though his thoughts were as wild as his jumping nerves.

Outside sounded the mutter of approaching hoofs. Charley Urbine tipped his head, listening, then moved to the door, the whole building seemed to sag and creak under his ponderous step.

The arriving hoofs slowed to a trampling halt. Urbine called some remark and got a short muffled answer in return. The rider came across the rickety porch and Urbine gave back from the door to let him enter.

The new arrival was Buff Spooner, and in the brief glance Scorbie had at him before the shadows of the room blunted things, he marked the brand of savage punishment which Buff's battered face proclaimed. Charley Urbine marked this also, and spoke on it.

"Who hacked you up? I thought all the grizzly bear had left these hills."

"Funny," snarled Buff.

A tide of red rolled up Urbine's vast features, and his fat-squeezed eyes turned piggy and cold.

"Listen, Spooner," he wheezed. "I don't know why you're here. But this is my place and I run it my way. In it I take no back talk from you or any other man. I asked you a fair question. I want a fair answer or you can fork that saddle outside and keep travelin'."

A week ago, Buff Spooner might have thrown the ultimatum back into Urbine's face. But a week ago, Buff Spooner had been a comparatively whole man, such as it was. He wasn't whole any more. Part of him had been forever lost under the punishing fists of Chris Waddell. So now Buff's snarl turned to a surly mumble.

"Waddell," he blurted. "That drifter who's set himself up as night marshal in Midas Hill. He jumped me when I wasn't lookin'."

"So?" Urbine's murmured word was caustic. "Well, one thing is plain enough. When he jumped you he sure must have hit all over you."

"Hogan Geer figured I better come here for a week or so."

"Sure it wasn't this feller Waddell who told you to get out of town?" Urbine persisted. "I know how men like him work. They ain't changing such as you hanging around to gulch 'em from an alley some dark night. After cleaning up like he did on you, the idea is to lay out a deadline, generally sunrise or sundown."

Buff nodded. "He said I'd be dead if I wasn't out of Midas Hill by this morning. But it was Geer who sent me here." Buff eyed the bottle on the bar thirstily.

It was the mention of Hogan Geer's name which decided Urbine. Hogan Geer could foot this fellow's liquor bill, too.

"Help yourself."

Buff wasted no time. He filled the glass, tossed it off, filled it again.

"I ain't never seen this feller Waddell," he observed. "But some word about him has been comin' through. Hear he buffaloes Breed Garvey—and good!"

"Yeah. And ever since he's been walkin' up and down the Street like he owned it. But he won't do that to long." Buff added viciously. "Geer and Breed Garvey and Price Ringgold, they're fixin' to take care of Waddell. How are chances for some breakfast?"

Urbine corked the bottle and put it away under the bar.

"Out back," Urbine said, leading the way.

In his shadowy corner, Frank Scorbie sat quietly. At no time had Buff Spooner looked his way, was apparently unaware of his presence. Running through Scorbie's mind was the import of what he had just seen and listened to.

CHAPTER XX

Morning sunlight filtered thinly into Charley Urbine's barroom at Gold Run. Occupying a chair in a shadowed corner, Frank Scorbie suffered in tight lipped silence.

"Anybody," taunted Charley Urbine, "would think that somewhere between here and Midas Hill, you'd taken the pledge. Or that you figured my whisky was poison. It ain't. It's good whisky."

When word had first reached him from Hogan Geer that Scorbie would be along presently, Geer's instructions had been few and concise.

Keep Scorbie at Gold Run until sent for. Let him have all the whisky he wants, which will be plenty. And we in Midas Hill will take care of the bill.

Such had been Hogan Geer's instructions. Scorbie had arrived and the whisky offered. But he wouldn't touch it. Not a single drop. Instead, near a gallon of black coffee had been substituted.

"You wouldn't be getting ideas, would you, Scorbie? About heading back to Midas Hill, maybe? That wouldn't be wise. You don't go anywhere until I say so. Remember that!"

Still Frank Scorbie said nothing, though his thoughts were as wild as his jumping nerves.

Outside sounded the mutter of approaching hoofs. Charley Urbine tipped his head, listening, then moved to the door, the whole building seemed to sag and creak under his ponderous step.

The arriving hoofs slowed to a trampling halt. Urbine called some remark and got a short muffled answer in return. The rider came across the rickety porch and Urbine gave back from the door to let him enter.

The new arrival was Buff Spooner, and in the brief glance Scorbie had at him before the shadows of the room blunted things, he marked the brand of savage punishment which Buff's battered face proclaimed. Charley Urbine marked this also, and spoke on it.

"Who hacked you up? I thought all the grizzly bear had left these hills."

"Funny," snarled Buff.

A tide of red rolled up Urbine's vast features, and his fat-squeezed eyes turned piggy and cold.

"Listen, Spooner," he wheezed. "I don't know why you're here. But this is my place and I run it my way. In it I take no back talk from you or any other man. I asked you a fair question. I want a fair answer or you can fork that saddle outside and keep travelin'."

A week ago, Buff Spooner might have thrown the ultimatum back into Urbine's face. But a week ago, Buff Spooner had been a comparatively whole man, such as it was. He wasn't whole any more. Part of him had been forever lost under the punishing fists of Chris Waddell. So now Buff's snarl turned to a surly mumble.

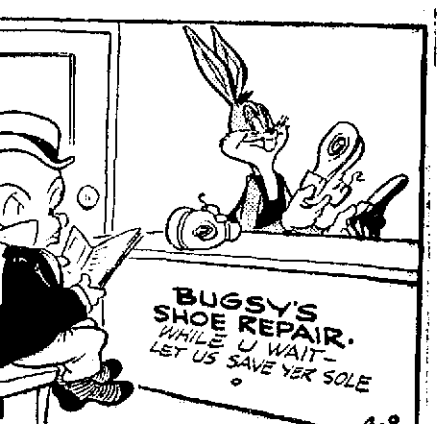

"Waddell," he blurted. "That drifter who's set himself up as night marshal in Midas Hill. He jumped me when I wasn't lookin'."

"So?" Urbine's murmured word was caustic. "Well, one thing is plain enough. When he jumped you he sure must have hit all over you."

"Hogan Geer figured I better come here for a week or so."

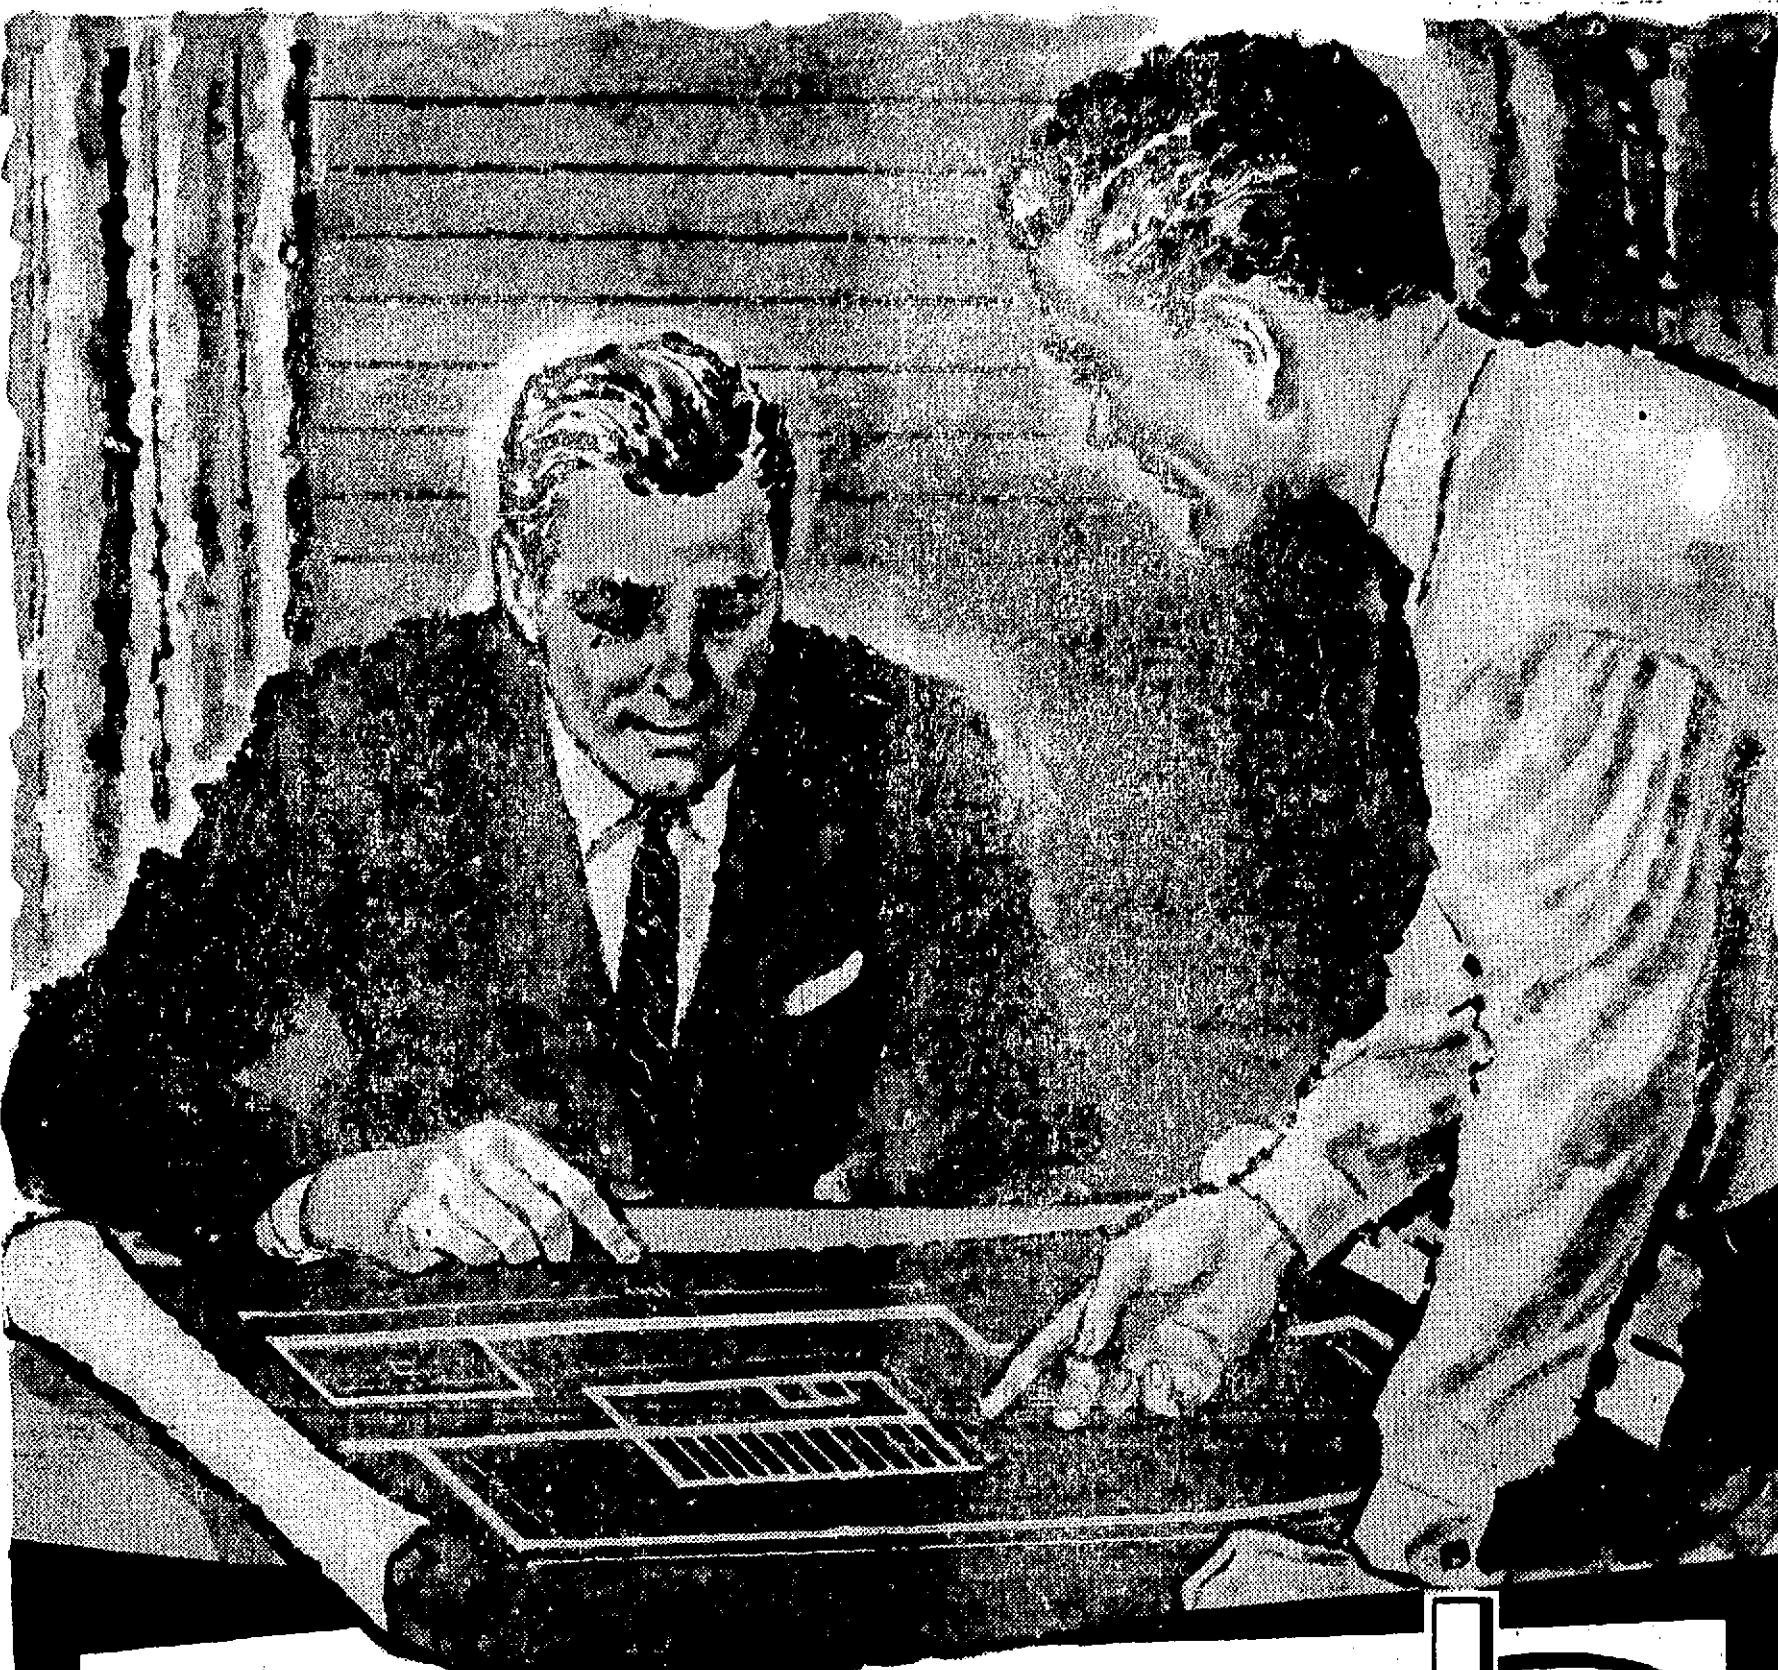

"Sure it wasn't this feller Waddell who told you to get out of town?" Urbine persisted. "I know how men like him work. They ain't changing such as you hanging around to gulch 'em from an alley some dark night. After cleaning up like he did on you,

Planning

Most of us understand the importance of good materials, proper location of heating units and well arranged rooms, when we are to build a house. But a life? Doesn't that just plan itself? Is not a man's life determined in the stars? Is he not the victim of fate? Or do we have something to say about it? The poet challenged himself, "Build thee more stately mansions, O my soul." Am I in some measure the "master of my fate"? To ask such questions is to answer them. Our inquiry proves our sense of freedom and our sense of responsibility. Then, how early should I start my plans? The answer is now! Of course, we should plan for today, tomorrow and for eternity. We must determine what to aim for. Whether we are young or old, with the help of the church and God, we may live forever.

You In The Church The Church In You

— form a combination for good. Every man, woman and child needs the influence of the church. So, come let us go into the house of the Lord. Let us support her program of service to humanity, be a faithful worker, a daily bible reader and attend services regularly.
